

By the Counsell of Virginea.

Whereas the good Shippe, called the Hercules, is now preparing, and almost in a readinesse With necessarie provisions, to make a supplie to the Lord Governour and the Colonie in Virginea, it is thought meet (for the avoiding of such vagrant and vnnecessarie persons as do commonly prefer themselves, being altogether vnterrificable) that none but honest sufficient Artificers, as Carpenters, Smiths, Coopers, Fishermen, Brickmen, and such like, shall be entertained into this Voyage: of whom so many as will in due time repaire to the house of Sir Thomas Smith in Philpott lane, With sufficient testimone of their skill and good behaviour, they shall receive entertainment accordingly.
